Affadavit of Labor Performed and Improvements made

State of Connecticut) County of Fairfield) ss.

David J. Hoffman, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he is a citizen of the United States and more than 21 years of age and resides in Westport, County of Fairfield, State of Connecticut, and is personally acquainted with the mining claims situated in the Lone Star Mining District, Graham County, Arizona, the names and books and pages of record in the office of the County Recorder of Graham County, Arizona, and the mining claim serial numbers as filed with the BLM in Phoenix, Arizona, all of which are set forth in attached Exhibit A, 53 claims owned by Towne Mines Exploration Company, Inc.

That all of said mining claims are owned by Towne Mines Exploration Company, Inc., the mailing address for which is P.O. Box 5206, Westport, Ct 06881, that between September 1,1984 and August 31,1985, in excess of $5300 worth of work was done and performed for the benefit of the exhibited claims. Work and improvement consisted of geological studies--petrological and geochemical surveys, structural mapping and district correlation of drilling results.

Said labor was performed at the expense of Towne Mines Exploration Company, Inc. for the benefit of each and all of said mining claims comprising a contiguous group as part of a general plan of exploration, and it tends to explore and improve each and all of said claims by narrowing down the interpretation of the buried mineralized intercepts to a mineralized intrusive that could be either an elongated dike or a larger pluton with ore possibilities. The amount spent and the value of said labor and improvements is more than $100 for each of the mutually contiguous mining claims and at least said amount was allocated to each of the mining claims. Such expenditure and labor was made in good faith for the purpose of exploring and improving said contiguous mining claims and was intended as Annual Labor and Improvements for each and all of the exhibited unpatented lode mining claims for the assessment year ending at 12:00 noon Meridian, September 1, 1985

David J. Hoffman, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he is a citizen of the United States and more than 21 years of age and resides in Westport, County of Fairfield, State of Connecticut, and is personally acquainted with the mining claims situated in the Lone Star Mining District, Graham County, Arizona, the names and books and pages of record in the office of the County Recorder of Graham County, Arizona, and the mining claim serial numbers as filed with the BLM in Phoenix, Arizona, all of which are set forth in the attached exhibits--Exhibit A, 171 claims owned by Towne Mines; Exhibit B, 94 claims owned by Hall et al under option to Towne Mines; Exhibit C, 38 claims owned by Grant et al under option to Towne Mines; Exhibit D, 37 claims owned by West et al under option to Towne Mines-- and shown on the attached claim map.

That all of said mining claims are owned by Towne Mines Exploration Company, Inc. the mailing address for which is P.O. Box 5206, Westport, Ct 06881, that between September 1,1982 and July 21, 1983, in excess of $42,000 worth of work was done and performed for the benefit of each of the exhibited claims.Work and improvement consisted of compilation of available geology on the porphyry deposits of the Safford mining district, preparation of maps and sections of all known porphyry deposits combining details from published and unpublished sources, deriving a general geologic setting for porphyry deposits in the district, relating each of 6 known deposits to this geologic scheme, relating Towne drilling results to this scheme, comparing Towne drilling results to geologic details of 5 of these known deposits for which detailed information is available, and establishing further affinities of the buried Towne deposit to Dos Pobres while demonstrably and substantially reducing the likelihood of Towne's deposit proving to be a Lone Star, San Juan or Sanchez, or even Sol type of deposit. This work was conducted by David J. Hoffman, whose special qualifications include an A.B. and A.M. in geology, ITC Certificate in photogeology, more than 20 years in mining exploration, and publication of 3 technical articles on mining exploration in Economic Geology.

Said labor, indicated by the attached geologic report and maps was performed at the expense of Towne Mines Exploration Company,Inc. for the benefit of each and all of said mining claims comprising said contiguous groups as part of a general plan of exploration, and it tends to explore and improve each and all of said mining claims by further establishing the positive potential of the buried deposit to be like Dos Pobres and demonstrating greatly reduced likelihood of something like one of the lesser, economically uninteresting deposits of the district. The amount spent and the value of said labor and improvements is more than $100 for each of the mutually contiguous mining claims and at least said amount was allocated to each of the mining claims. Said expenditure and labor was made in good faith for the purpose of exploring and improving said contiguous groups of mining claims and was intended as Annual Labor and Improvements for each and all of the exhibited unpatented lode mining claims for the assessment year ending at 12:00 o'clock Meridian September 1993.

Geologic Re-Evaluation

Towne Mines Exploration Company, Inc.

Safford, Arizona

Previous work had established on Towne holdings north of Safford a buried porphyry copper system, which, due to its location and metallization, held potential for another Dos Pobres type deposit. However, definitive information that might tend to eliminate lesser possibilities, such as an "immature system" like the Sol Prospect, erosional roots like the San Juan and Sanchez systems, or hydrothermally unenriched systems like the Lone Star had not been established. Extensive compilation of available geologic information on Safford porphyry deposits and intensive study of their characteristics and associations reveals consistent and previously undescribed associations that enable a re-examination of Towne data and a re-evaluation indicating more probable Dos Pobres potential and much less probablity of something like the known, lesser deposits of the district.

A general scheme of primary ore emplacements at Safford has been found to consist of an ore zone in the shape of an inverted funnel positioned over a relatively barren quartz monzonite pluton. Most of the primary ore occurs in volcanic hosts with lesser amounts in dikes of quartz monzonite and granodiorite composition. Much, although not all, of the differences in tonnage and grade of primary sulfide between the known porphyry deposits at Safford is related to degree of preservation--the better preserved deposits like Dos Pobres, Red Dyke, and Lone Star holding larger and higher grade primary sulfide tonnage, the smaller, leaner deposits like San Juan and Sanchez, being erosional roots. This concept is shown in Fig. 1.

Compilation of district geology reveals that degree of preservation at Safford appears to be relatable to proximity to Baboon Metavolcanics, a unit capping the host volcanic pile and described in a recent paper by Langton and Williams as having a base that is post-early mineralization and pre-late mineralization. The well preserved systems have been found directly under Baboon Metavolcanics (Red Dyke, Dos Pobres south of the Butte fault) or within 1000' laterally of the unit (Dos Pobres north of the Butte fault, Lone Star). The deeply denuded systems, such as San Juan and Sanchez (and apparently the Sol Prospect), are much further from Baboon Metavolcanics. This relation is shown in Fig. 2, which also shows intercepts of Baboon Metavolcanics on Towne holdings. The presence of Baboon Metavolcanics close beside the Towne target suggests a well preserved system and therefore possibilities for tonnage.

Degree of maturation of a porphyry system at Safford is believed to determine the quality of primary ore emplacement and has at least 2 megascopically distinguishable attributes. First is the degree to which productive porphyry rose upward into the host volcanic pile. The sub economic "immature systems" are believed related to small protuberances of productive porphyry that did not rise very far above a presumed basement stock or batholith. The more evolved systems have productive porphyry cores that rose thousands of feet into the pile. The most evolved systems, like Dos Pobres, were substantially enriched by sulfide veining during de-gassing and what Langton and Williams called the mega breccia stage" during rejuvenation of east-northeast-west-southwest shearing.

Considering the very great thickness of the volcanic pile at Safford, any porphyry system that rose to the top must have evolved to a fair degree and developed tonnage of perhaps Lone Star quality at least. In this regard, proximity of the Towne deposit to Baboon Metavolcanics suggests a substantial degree of evolution and hence tonnage. As to further evolution to possible Dos Pobres quality primary mineralization, the Towne deposit lies along the same east-northeast-west-southwest shear which must have undergone the same rejuvenation at both deposits. The low and virtually identical geochemistry of the Dos Pobres and Towne halos could be related to late stage inward migration of copper during de-gassing and mega brecciation during rejuvenation of the eastnortheast-west-southwest shearing, and copper sulfide veining in Towne's TM-3 drill core is consistent with such an evolutionary development.

Two other lines of evidence tend to reduce the likelihood of negative possibilities for the Towne deposit. First is comparison with the Sol Prospect, which a recent Master's thesis describes as containing mineralization in weakly fractured areas of dike contacts deep in the volcanic pile. The Towne deposit, even in its halo, has 3 to 4 times the fracture density described for Sol and should have stronger fracturing in its geologically expectable more central areas. Mineralization in Towne core is rather uniformly distributed throughout the rock units rather than confined or concentrated at contact areas. The Towne deposit, with its proximity to Baboon Metavolcanics looks to be close to the top rather than to the bottom of the volcanic pile and hence is not likely to be an immature system.

Second is an expectable difference between roof and wall alteration of the same degree. Owing to upward and outward movement of alteration producing fluids, the same degree of alteration in roof as opposed to wall samples might be expected to show differences corresponding to origins from fluids that respectively passed through an ore zone and left the central conduit near or in ore rather than left the central conduit well below the ore zone. This concept is shown in Fig. 3. The control data afforded by Kennecott and Phelps Dodge work in the district is based on exposed systems (except for Sol) where drilling could be initiated in relatively central zones after relatively inexpensive surface geochemistry and geophysics. It is doubtful that either company had to step more than 1 hole (800') laterally beyond the more central zones.By contrast, drilling a buried system is more likely to encounter the halo first and probably much further out from the central zone than 800' into the walls. This discrepancy between equivalent degrees of roof and wall alteration is likely to be further increased when the deposit is tilted away from the drill site (as at the Towne property) and hence complicate its comparison with control samples from more inward and roof positions on known, exposed systems.

In sum, re-evaluation of Towne drilling data, based on new information and compilation of district geology, finds further indications of Dos Pobres potential and demonstrable differences from the known lesser deposits of the Safford mining district.

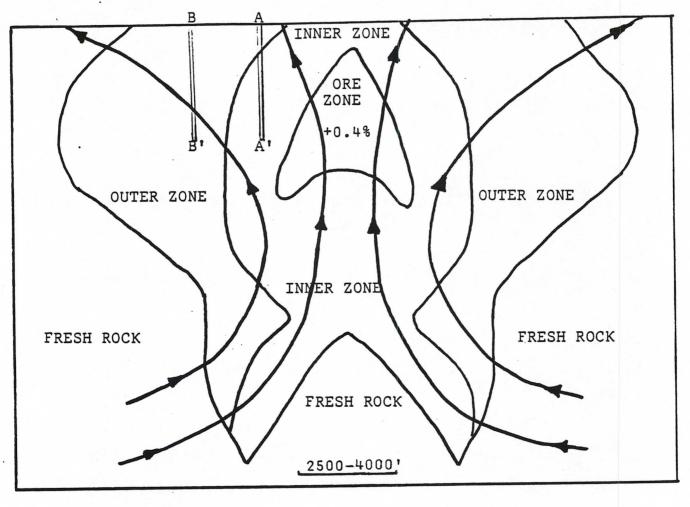

Fig. 3. FLUID CONVECTION and RESULTING ALTERATION ZONE

Showing relation of 2 drill holes to fluids which produced the alteration zone. (Modified from Drummond and Godwin).

Although the bottom of the outer hole (BB') cuts a similar position in the concentric zonation to the top of the inner hole (AA') and might be expected to exhibit similar mineralogical assemblages, the convection fluids which produced the alteration at the top of the inner hole also passed through the ore zone, whereas those producing the alteration at the bottom of the outer hole did not. The component of magmatic water involved in producing the alteration at the bottom of the outer hole would have left the central conduit at much greater depth than the component producing the same degree of alteration at the top of the inner hole, possibly producing subltle mineralogical differences corresponding to these differences in departure from the central conduit, respectively from the relatively barren core and ore zone.

Geologic Report

B. L. M. AZ STATE OFFICE OCT 1 - 1982 07:45 A. M. PHOENIX, ARIZONA

Towne Mines Exploration Company, Inc.

Safford,Arizona

Surface mapping, aerial photo interpretation, and core drilling have enabled Towne Mines Exploration Company Inc. to trace major emplacement control structures from exposed ore hosts in front of the Gila mountain front to covered ground behind the mountain front. The relative results of geochemical anomalies and associated rock silicate alteration encountered beneath the post mineral volcanic cap by Towne drilling have established a buried porphyry copper system near the center of Towne holdings.

From published data on the metallization configuration, dimensions, and mineralogical associations of the Dos Pobres and Lone Star deposits just southwest and south respectively of Towne holdings, it has been possible to create a 3 dimensional model and to place Towne drilling results onto this model of approximately known dimensions and composition. Relative ratios of diagnostic silicates-- most importantly but not exclusively secondary biotite and chlorite-- in different Towne drill holes complement the geochemical results, which in the best Towne drill hole are virtually identical to halo sampling of the Dos Pobres, and show a halo type silicate assemblage as well.

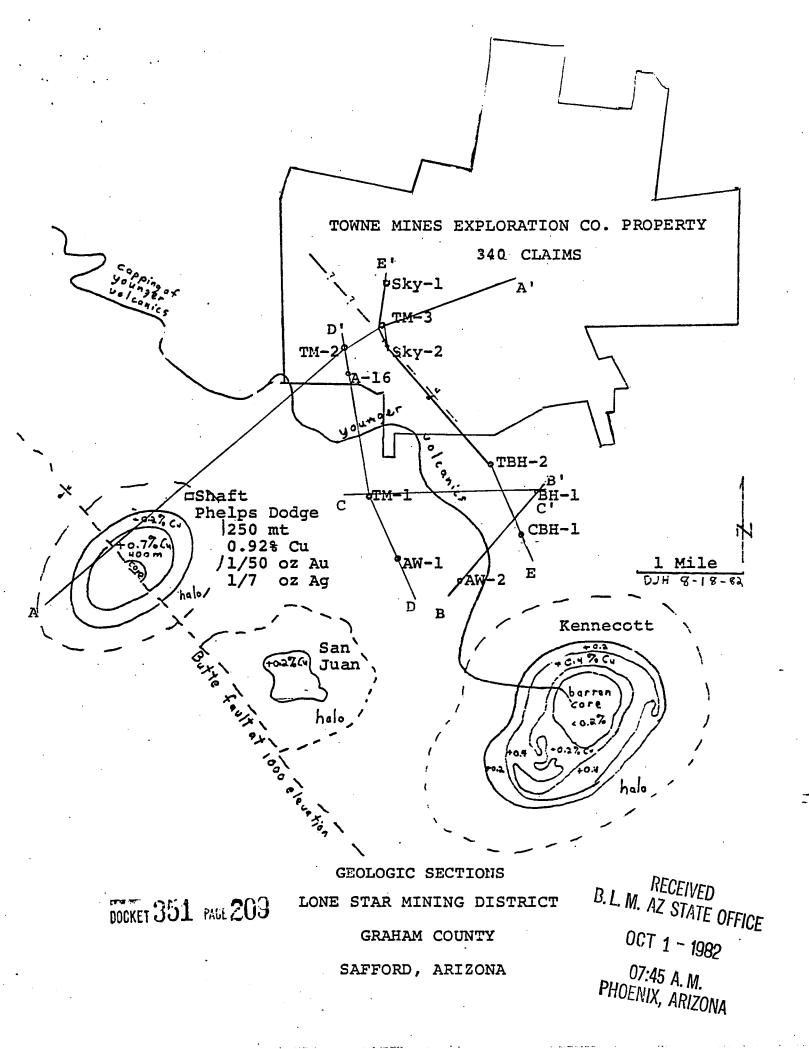

Towne's relative drilling results--geochemistry, total sulfide content, chlorite to secondary biotite ratio, degree of intensity or penetration of alteration minerals, maximum grain size of secondary biotite--improve away from Dos Pobres and therefore indicate another system centered on Towne ground, showing Dos Pobre type mineralization.

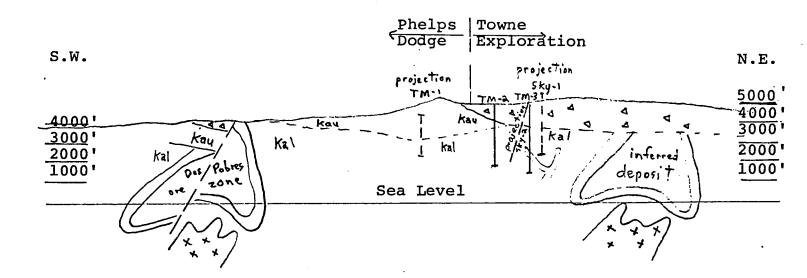

An exploration target without promise of becoming competitive in the foreseeable future with lower cost producers would be of little more than academic interest at the present time in view of the severe depression now affecting the metals industry. In the Safford district anything less than Dos Pobres quality would probably have no commercial potential in the foreseeable future. With this in mind, there has been a very careful review of Towne data in conjunction with district geology and recently acquired data on the Dos Pobres deposit for any line of evidence that could justify elimination of the Towne property-such as indications of excessive depth, insufficient metallization, insufficient size, excessively costly mining conditions. To date the evidence justifies further work.
