General Description

The Lin Yankee Consolidated Mining Claim is the South-West Claim of the Arnold lode that is located on the Granite Mountain - the distinguishing feature of which is a sharp rocky summit named Butte Peak.

It is bordered on the South and West sides by Mineral Gulch and is bounded on the North by the Hubbard Consolidated Mining Claim ^{Lot No 41} and on the South by the

Field Notes of the Survey of the Fire Yankee Mining Claim
Fox-All Mining Claim

The surface of the claim is broken covered with dense stunted growth of Chaparral & oak bushes and traversed from a point 100 feet S.E. from the N.W. Cor to the S.E. Cor by Fire Yankee Gulch which enters Mineral Gulch S.E. of the claim near the Cañon of South Cedar Valley Pass.

The improvements on the claim consist of three shafts located and described in the foregoing notes aggregating 144 feet in depth, which improvements were made by the claimants or their grantors, and I hereby certify that they are of not in value worth less than $500.

The locus of the mine is more completely fixed by additional observations which I take as follows:—
