The N. end line of the ~~xxxxxxx~~ Copper Point is at its northern base. The slope is steep and in places abrupt, especially near its apex on the Alta Lode.

No. 8

As readily seen the open cut^a on the El Paso Lode will cut the ore on the Alta at a depth rendering such method ~~good~~ of development good practice

Shaft No. 5. on the Copper Point is located on the side of the hill which descends abruptly and with 500 ft. depth here will cut the ore bodies on the Alta at 1200 ft by drifts.

This method of development from a main working shaft is universally practiced in this district, which is strictly a deposit and not a vein formation.
