On the night of January 10th, 1889
I take an observation of the star Polaris in accordance with the instructions contained in the Manual of Surveys and drive pickets on the line so established.

Before commencing this survey I test my instrument on the line established January 10th and find it correct and the va. to be 13°42' E

My compass will therefore run the same line as the exterior boundary and the chaining practically agrees, having just run the same.
