All lode mining locations hereafter located, the certificate of location of which shall not contain: First, the name of the lode or premises; second, the name of the locator or locators; third, the date of the location; fourth, the number of feet in length of said claim and the number of feet claimed on each side of the center of the discovery shaft, lengthwise of the claim; fifth, the general course of the lode or premises, as near as may be; sixth, the general locality of the claim with reference to some natural object or permanent monument that will identify the claim, shall be void.

Before filing such location certificate with the County Recorder of the proper County, the discoverer shall locate his lode claim by: First, sinking a discovery shaft upon the premises so claimed, to a depth of at least ten feet from the lowest part of the rim of said shaft at the surface, and deeper if necessary, until there is shown by such work a lode deposit or mineral in place; second, by posting at the point of discovery on the surface, a plain sign, or notice, substantially conforming to the location certificate; third, by marking such claim or premises on the ground so that its boundaries can be readily traced.

Such surface boundaries shall be marked by eight substantial posts projecting at least three feet above the surface of the ground, or by substantial stone monuments at least three feet high, to-wit: One at each corner of said claim, and one at the center of each end and side line thereof.

The discoverer shall have ninety days from the date of discovering the lode and the posting of the notice thereon, to perform said discovery work thereon.

If at any time the locator of any mining claim heretofore or hereafter located, or his assigns, shall learn that his original certificate was defective, or that the requirements of the law had not been complied with before filing, or shall be desirous of changing his surface boundaries or of taking in any additional ground which is subject to location, or in case the original certificate was made prior to the passage of this law, and he shall be desirous of securing the benefits of this Act, such locator or his assigns, may file an amended certificate of location subject to the provisions of this Act regarding the making of new locations.
