The final tests of the solar instruments are described in the field notes of the subdivision of T. 11 N., R. 17 E., surveyed under this group.

General Description.

Fractional T. 10 N., R. 17 E. is situated on the Mogollon Plateau, about forty four miles southwest of Holbrook, Arizona, and may be easily reached by roads leading from either Holbrook or Young. A second class road enters the township near the NE. corner of section 4, follows close to the divide, and leaves the township on the west boundary of section 6.

The elevation of the township ranges from 7,000 to 7,200 feet above sealevel. The drainage is about equally divided to the north and the south. The soil is gravelly and sandy loam, containing much rock. A good growth of timber is found over the entire fractional township. Yellow pine predominates, while fir, oak, aspen and juniper are found in more scattered growths. The undergrowth is scattering. There is only a thin stand of native grass.
